

EDITORIAL GUIDELINES

1. Scope and Languages

Another Now publishes original, unpublished research articles in the field of the history of ideas.

The journal accepts contributions mainly in English and Italian.

English-language articles should conform to the Chicago Manual of Style, 18th edition (Author-Date system).

2. Submission and Review

- Manuscripts should be submitted in Word format to the editorial office.
 - All submissions undergo double-blind peer review.
 - The journal will not consider work simultaneously under review elsewhere.

3. Length

- Articles: max 15,000 words (including footnotes).
 - Reviews: max 3,000 words.
 - Reports / Notes: max 2000 words.

4. Formatting and Style

- Font: Times New Roman, 12 pt, 1.5 spacing; footnotes 10 pt.
 - Avoid underlining and bold in the main text.
 - Use italics for book titles and foreign terms.
 - Paragraphs should start at the left margin, without indentation, after block quotations.

5. Quotations

- Short quotations (up to 40 words) appear in double quotation marks (“ ”); use single (‘ ’) quotation marks for quotations within quotations.
 - Longer quotations should be set as indented blocks, 10 pt, without quotation marks.
 - Ellipses indicating omissions should be placed within brackets: [...].
 - Foreign words not assimilated into English should be set in italics.

6. Notes

- Footnotes are numbered consecutively with Arabic numerals, placed after punctuation marks.
- Citations should appear in parentheses in the main text of the footnote, as (Author Year, page) or, depending on sentence structure, Author (Year, page).

Example:

(Lovejoy 1936, 112-114), or “In his most famous book, Arthur O. Lovejoy (1936, 112-114) argues that...”.

7. Citations and References

- In-text references follow the author–date style: (Author Year, page).
- When referring to more than one work, list chronologically and separate with semicolons: (Lovejoy 1936; Rossi 1979; Bianchi 2007).
- For more than three authors, always use et al. after the first author.
- Full bibliographic details appear in the reference list at the end of the essay.
- Use headline capitalization for English titles and sentence capitalization for other languages.
- In case of translations or reprints, place the original year of publication in brackets after the title.
