

AutorInnen / Contributors

Citation: AutorInnen/Contributors (2026) "Quaderni di Lea – Scrittori e scritture d'Oriente e d'Occidente" 10: pp. 251-253. doi: <https://doi.org/10.36253/lea-1824-484x-17377>.

Copyright: © 2026 AutorInnen/Contributors. This is an open access, peer-reviewed article published by Firenze University Press (<https://oajournals.fupress.net/index.php/bsfm-lea>) and distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution License, which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original author and source are credited.

Data Availability Statement: All relevant data are within the paper and its Supporting Information files.

Competing Interests: The Author(s) declare(s) no conflict of interest.

Sabrina Ballestracci (<sabrina.ballestracci@unifi.it>) is Associate Professor of German Linguistics. Research areas are acquisition and didactics of German as a foreign language (DaF), contrastive grammar, connectors, text linguistics, and translation. Her current research interests include acquisition of syntax, interlingual transfer in German as L2/L3, adversative and concessive connectors, digital scientific communication, and translation of specialized art terminology.

Claudia Buffagni (<buffagni@unistrasi.it>) is Associate Professor of German Linguistics. Her research interests include the syntax of German in journalistic text genres (with a focus on connectives), audiovisual translation (particularly interlingual subtitling) of German-language art films and tv-series, and the acquisition of reading and writing skills in GFL at university level. She has devoted particular attention to translating humour and turpiloquy.

Nicolò Calpestrati (<nicolo.calpestrati@unistrasi.it>) is Researcher of German Language and Translation. His research focuses on text linguistics, pragmatics and German-Italian contrastive grammar.

Chiara Cernicchiaro (<chiara.cernicchiaro@uniupo.it>) earned her PhD in German Linguistics at the University of Pisa, specialising in word order for German as Foreign Language (DaF). She is about to take up a ricercatore-position at the University of Piemonte Orientale, having been selected through a competitive selection process. Her research interests include German syntax, modal particles, DaF, German in Namibia and digital media.

Sara Corso (<sara.corso@unimi.it>) is a postdoctoral researcher in the interdisciplinary field of German language, translation and linguistics. Her current research interests include contrastive German-Italian grammar in the context of German as a foreign language, language simplification, reading comprehension and AI-related German.

Irene Corvacho del Toro (<Irene.CorvachodelToro@uni-siegen.de>) holds a PhD in Linguistics. She is a lecturer and researcher in the field of German language didactics in the Department of German at the University of Siegen in Germany. Her work focuses on teachers' professional development, AI in the language classroom, orthography acquisition and spelling disorders, multilingualism and the role of emotional vocabulary and storytelling abilities in language development.

Gianluca Cosentino (<gianluca.cosentino@unica.it>) is Associate Professor of German Language and Translation. His research focuses on prosody, German-Italian contrastive grammar and text linguistics, with particular attention to the didactics of German as a foreign language.

Dominique Dias (<Dominique.Dias@sorbonne-universite.fr>) is Associate Professor of German Linguistics at Sorbonne University. He studies textual genres and discourse traditions from a French-German contrastive perspective, with a focus on digital and social media communication.

Carolina Flinz (<carolina.flinz@unipv.it>) is Associate Professor of German linguistics. Her main areas of research are corpus linguistics, contrastive linguistics, lexicography, LSP (tourism, economics, politics) and teaching of German as foreign language (DaF).

Marina Foschi Albert (<marina.foschi@unipi.it>) is Full Professor of German Linguistics. Her research areas are text linguistics and stylistics, text and reading comprehension, lexicon and syntax. Her current research interests include linguistic humour, Luther's language use, digital scientific communication, AI-related German.

Mareike Fuhlrott (<mareike.fuhlrott@uni-siegen.de>) holds a PhD in Didactics of the German Language and works as a Postdoctoral Researcher at the University of Siegen. Her research focuses on writing didactics, using generative AI in education, task design, textbooks, German as a foreign language and educational language across disciplines.

Marianne Hepp (<marianne.hepp@unipi.it>) is Full professor of German Linguistics and Director of the University's Linguistic Centre. Her main research interests include text-linguistic approaches to second and multilingual language acquisition (with a focus on English-German intercomprehension), language varieties, German morphology and word formation, typological connections between everyday and literary texts.

Nora Hoffmann (<n.hoffmann@em.uni-frankfurt.de>) heads the Writing Center at Goethe University Frankfurt am Main, Germany. Her research focuses on writing studies and university didactics and includes writing and reading didactics in higher education as well as writing centre research.

Michel Lefevre (<michel.lefevre@univ-montp3.fr>) ist seit 2010 Professor für germanistische Linguistik an der Université Montpellier – Paul Valéry. Seine Forschungsschwerpunkte sind die deutsche Sprache und ihre Geschichte, Pragmatik, Diskursanalyse, wissenschaftliche Kommunikation und Mediendiskurse seit dem 17. Jh. Insbesondere forscht er über die deutsche Sprache im 17. Und 18. Jh., über pragmatische Entwicklungen im Gebrauch von Diskurspartikeln, über syntaktische und rhetorische Entwicklungen von Luther bis heute.

Katrin Lehnen (<katrin.lehnen@germanistik.uni-giessen.de>) is Professor of German Language and Media Didactics at the University of Gießen. Her research and teaching includes Digital, Professional and Academic Writing, Digital Habitus and Literacy, Writing and Communication in the Era of AI

Martina Lemmetti (<martina.lemmetti@unipv.it>) is Researcher of German Language and Translation. Her main research interests are German modal particles, their Italian equivalents and the didactics of German as a foreign language.

Patrizio Malloggi (<patrizio.malloggi@unipi.it>) is Associate Professor of German Linguistics. His research focuses on German grammar from a contrastive perspective with Italian (with particular emphasis on parts of speech, especially prepositions and pre-adverbs), as well as on the didactics of German as a foreign language (with a focus on reading strategies and text comprehension).

Liubov Patrukhina (<liubov.patrukhina@univ-tlse2.fr>) is Associate Professor of German Linguistics at the University of Toulouse – Jean Jaurès. Her research interests lie in the areas of Interactional Linguistics, Foreign Language Didactics and Linguistic Landscape Studies from a French-German contrastive perspective.

Miriam Ravetto (<miriam.ravetto@uniupo.it>) is Full Professor of German linguistics. Her main areas of research include contrastive linguistics, intercultural pragmatics, conversational analysis, tourism communication, teaching of German as foreign language (DaF).

Benedetta Rosi (<benedetta.rosi@fileli.unipi.it>) is PostDoc in German Linguistics at the University of Pisa. She earned a PhD in Italian Linguistics at the University of Basel, 2019. Since then, PostDoc and Lecturer in Basel, Turin, Pisa/Lucca. Main research areas: contrastive grammar (German-Italian), text linguistics, language varieties.

Katharina Salzmänn (<katharina.salzmänn@unitn.it>) is Associate Professor of German Linguistics. Her research areas are academic language, conversation analysis, German as a foreign language in the context of multilingualism, child language acquisition. Her current research interests focus on interlingual transfer in German as L1 and L2/L3, discourse markers, digital scientific communication, and AI in German as a Foreign Language teaching.

Daniela Sorrentino (<daniela.sorrentino@unical.it>) is Associate Professor of German Linguistics. Her research areas are text linguistics, academic writing, didactics of German as a foreign language (DaF), multilingualism. Her current research interests focus on German as a language of science in the context of internationalisation, AI in German as a Foreign Language teaching, linguistic discourse analysis, hate speech, and digital scientific communication.

Torsten Steinhoff (<steinhoff@germanistik.uni-siegen.de>) is Professor of German language didactics at the University of Siegen. His research and teaching focus on writing didactics, vocabulary didactics, language-specific learning, and digital communication/AI.

