

Appendice bio-bibliografica su autori e autrici

Alfredo Alietti is Professor of General Sociology and Urban and Territorial Sociology at the Department of Humanities and co-Director of the Urban Studies Laboratory and Director of the University Centre for International Cooperation. He is a member of the International Advisory Board of the journal “Theomai Journal. Society and Development Studies”, of the editorial board of the series “Politiche Migratorie” (Franco Angeli), of the scientific committee of the journal “Culture della Sostenibilità” and of the editorial board of the on-line journal “Tracce Urbane”. He is a member of the Inter-University Research Centre “Ecology, Politics and Society” and member of the steering committee of the international network “Advanced Urban Marginality” of the University of Edinburgh, Institute of Geography, Leverhulme Trust London and of the board of the ESA (European Sociological Association) Research Network 31 “Antisemitism, Racism and Ethnic Relations”. He has conducted national and international research and published on the following topics: urban and housing policies, racism and discrimination, social participation, interethnic coexistence in urban contexts. Among his recent publications: the monographs Interruptions. Città, razzismo, politiche (Mimesis, 2024), and (with D. Padovan) Le grammatiche del razzismo (Cà Foscari University Press, 2023).

Viviana Asara is a researcher in General Sociology at the Department of Humanities at the University of Ferrara and ‘research affiliate’ at the Institute for Multi-Level Governance and Development at the Vienna University of Economics and Business. She has worked on mobilisation, participation and conflict, democracy and governance processes, social policies, political ecology, degrowth and ecological and ‘just’ transition. She has published in several international and national journals such as: Environment and Planning C: Politics and Space, Social Movement Studies, Environmental Politics, Environmental Values, Environmental Policy and Governance, Participation and Conflict, Democratic Theory, Sustainability Science, Cultures of Sustainabil- ity, Sociologia Urbana e Rurale, Sustainability: Science, Practice and Policy. She edited, together with Luigi Pelizzoni and Emanuele Leonardi, the Handbook of Critical Environmental Politics (Edward Elgar, 2022) and is the author of the monograph Democrazia senza crescita: L'ecologia politica del movimento degli Indignados (Aracne, 2020).

Pierluca Birindelli PhD is a Marie Skłodowska-Curie Alumnus, University of Helsinki. He teaches at Gonzaga University, International Studies Institute and CEACAPA. His research interests include individual and collective identities, youth, narrative self-identity, cultural globalization and cosmopolitanism. His current research project is a comparative study: “The Cultural Experience of International Students”.

Gianfranco Bettin Lattes ha insegnato Sociologia nella Facoltà di Scienze Politiche “Cesare Alfieri” di Firenze ed è Fondatore della Rivista Società Mutamento-Politica. Rivista italiana di sociologia.

Sandro Busso is associate professor in Political Sociology at the Department of Cultures, Politics and Society of the University of Turin. His research work focuses on the processes of governing and disciplining the poor, transformations in the governance of social policies with particular attention to the role of civil society and the third sector, the political dimension of work and changes in forms of participation. He recently edited (with E. Graziano) the Italian edition of Disciplining the Poor (Soss, Fording and Schram, 2022) and published the volume Lavorare meno. Se otto ore vi sembrano poche (EGA, 2023).

Emily B. Campbell is a political and cultural sociologist, her work examines American community life, focusing on democratic processes and drug use. She holds a PhD in Sociology from the City University of New York (CUNY) and completed postdoctoral training at the SNF Agora Institute at Johns Hopkins University.

She is Assistant Professor of Sociology at Rhode Island College.

Roberta Casagrande is a PhD student at the Department of Political Science, University of Messina. Since October 2023 she is Cultrice della Materia in Sports Journalism - SPS/08. She obtained a 2nd Level Master's Degree in Political and Institutional Communication and Marketing at the Luiss Business School. She is a graduate of the Master's Degree Course in Methods and Languages of Journalism, a course of study that enabled her to obtain the qualification of Communication Expert and where she was able to deepen the knowledge she had already acquired during her three-year course of study in Communication Sciences, specialising in Marketing and Advertising. She is registered with the Order of Journalists of Sicily as a Publicist. Her main areas of research are gender dynamics, new relational models in media implications and political and sports communication. The work that won her the Etic 2020 National Prize for Ethics in Information and Communication is entitled 'Pink Power: Gender Discrimination in the World of Sports Journalism and Sport', published as a monograph in 2021 and edited by Di Nicolò Edizioni.

Leonardo Chiesi teaches Sociology in the School of Architecture of the University of Florence and was Associate Visiting Professor in the Department of Architecture, University of California at Berkeley, 2015-2020. He is interested in social research methods for architecture, urban design and planning and he studies how sociology and design can be mutually engaged. With Stefano Mancuso, he co-directs the interdisciplinary Master's Degree Program "Future in Plants. Plant Research, Social Innovation, Design" (futurovegetale.org). Selected recent publications: Francini S., Chirici G., Chiesi L., Costa P., Caldarelli G. and Mancuso S. (2024) «Global Spatial Assessment of Potential for New Peri-urban Forests to Combat Climate Change», in Nature Cities, 1, 286–294, <https://doi.org/10.1038/s44284-024-00049-1>. Chiesi L., P. Costa (2023), «How Design Is Appropriated: Understanding Habitation through the Observation of Situated Behavior», in Social Sciences, vol. 12, pp. 1-22, ISSN 2076-0760, <https://doi.org/10.3390/socsci12060319>. Chiesi L. and Costa P. (2022), «Small Green Spaces in Dense Cities: An Exploratory Study of Perception and Use in Florence, Italy», in Sustainability, vol. 14, p. 1-21, ISSN 2071-1050, <https://doi.org/10.3390/su14074105>. Yeros S. G. and L. Chiesi (2022), «Trans Territorialization: Building Empowerment beyond Identity Politics», in Social Sciences, vol. 11, p. 1-21, ISSN 2076-0760, <https://doi.org/10.3390/socsci11100429>.

Chiesi L. and G. Forte (2022), «Design for Climate Change in the Neoliberal Present: Gentrification, Ecocide, and the Loss of Urbanity in New York City», in Social Sciences p. 1-26, ISSN 2076-0760, <https://doi.org/10.3390/socsci11100451>. Ikalovic V. and Chiesi L. (2020), «Dispersion of Home in Contemporary City. A Case Study of Perception and Behavior in Young Tokyoites», in Space and Culture, May 2018, pp. 508-521, ISSN 1152-8308. Costa P., Lauria A. and Chiesi L. (2020), «Promoting Autonomy through Home Adaptations. Appropriation of Domestic Spaces in Italy», in Disability & Society, 7, pp. 1332-1355, ISSN 0968-7599

Rosario D'Agata is Associate Professor in Social Statistics, Department of Social and Political Sciences, University of Catania. Main research fields: poverty and inequality studies, Network analysis on social media, migration studies, gender studies, electoral and political studies. Main methodological interests: Multilevel models, Social Network Analysis, Bayesian Networks, Content analysis, Classification methods.

Senzio Sergio D'Agata è dottorando in URBEUR-Urban Studies presso l'Università di Milano-Bicocca. Ha conseguito una laurea triennale in sociologia presso l'Università di Catania e una laurea magistrale in sociologia del territorio presso l'Università di Trento. I suoi interessi sono sempre stati incentrati sul rapporto tra azione politica e spazio urbano, con particolare attenzione alle politiche e ai conflitti che sorgono attorno al modello di sviluppo sostenibile in contesti urbani.

Ernesto d'Albergo, Professor at Sapienza, University of Rome, where he teaches "Political Sociology" and "Policies for Sustainable Urban Development". Past coordinator of the PhD School in Social and Economic Sciences and Senior Fellow at the Sapienza School of Advanced Studies. Recent publications: Sociologia della politica contemporanea (ed., with Giulio Moini), Carocci 2024; La politica dell'intelligenza artificiale general purpose: immaginari socio-tecnici, democrazia e policy frame nel processo decisionale della regolazione europea ("EU AI ACT" - 2022-2024), IM@GO Journal 2024.

Edoardo Esposto is a researcher at Sapienza, University of Rome - Department of Social and Economic Sciences, where he teaches Social Research on Public Policy and Governance, Analysis and Evaluation of Public Policies for Sustainable Development. He recently published the book Sostenibilità. Istituzioni, discorsi, politica (2024, Mondadori Education).

Stefania Ferraro is an Associate Professor of Political Sociology at the Department of Education, Psychology, and Communication at Suor Orsola Benincasa University in Naples. She co-directs DIE (Laboratoire des terrains vagues au sujet de Désaffiliation, Incertitude, Exclusion) and its associated editorial series. Her research focuses on social and environmental policies and welfare state systems, particularly concerning the pathologization of socio-economic hardships. Her recent publications on the topics of medicalization processes and environmental policies include: Forme giuridiche, governance e agire sociale nel riutilizzo pubblico, in id. (ed.), Mo' bene! Politiche per il sociale. Note sociologiche sul riutilizzo pubblico, Editoriale Scientifica, Napoli, 2023; Nel campo del sociale: innovazione, valutazione e determinazione delle condotte, in «Cartografie sociali», n. 16, 2023, pp. 99-122 (with Anna D'Ascenzio); Contaminaciones neoliberales del cuerpo escolar italiano tras la pandemia, in «RESED. Revista de Estudios Socioeducativos», n. 11, 2023, pp. 213-227; The Fall of the Asbestos Branch. A Sociological Approach to Self-ban Strategy of Italian Railways: between Laws, Market Regulations and Judgments, in «Cartografie sociali», n. 14, 2022, pp. 125-147 (with Anna D'Ascenzio).

Bianca Galmarini is PhD Candidate in urban planning at the Department of Architecture of the University of Florence, has been visiting scholar at the Autonomous University of Barcelona and at the University of Santiago de Compostela. She has been Research Fellow at the Department of Social and Political Science of the University of Florence. She is interested in environmental justice, climate gentrification, her research concerns the role of social representations and expert knowledge in public policies related to sustainability. Selected recent publications: Chiesi L., Ciaravella F., Costa P. e Galmarini B. (2024), «Le scuole come opportunità per rinaturalizzare l'ambiente costruito», in Mela A., Battaglini E. e Palazzo A. L. (a cura di) La società e lo spazio. Quadri teorici, scenari e casi di studio. Collana: Ambiente e Sfide Sociali, Carocci Editore. Galmarini B., Costa P. e Chiesi L. (2022), «Natural Building Materials and Social Representations» in Informal Settlements: How Perceptions of Bamboo Interfere with Sustainable, Affordable, and Quality Housing. Sustainability, 14(19), 12252. doi.org/10.3390/su141912252

Michele Garau is research fellow for the Department of Cultures, Politics and Society at the University of Turin. His work focuses on theoretical and discursive regime shifts in contemporary anti-capitalist movements, with a political philosophical and historiographi-cal approach. Within his work he pays particular attention to the analysis of the concept of “destitution” and the centrality of revolt and uprising in current repertoires of conflict and collective mobilization. On the topic of urban uprisings he has recently published, La politica delle rivolte urbane, in Teoria politica, while forthcoming is a monographic contribution on the thought of Jacques Camatte.

Giorgio Giovanelli, Research fellow at Sapienza University of Rome, Department of Social Sciences and Economics. His research interests focus on innovations in urban policies and governance. Recent publication: «Politiche e governance urbane», In E. d'Albergo e G. Moini Sociologia della politica contemporanea, Carocci, 2024; (with other authors) «La governance dell'Intelligenza Artificiale nelle politiche locali: trade-off e potere nel caso della videosorveglianza a Torino», in Rivista Trimestrale di Scienza dell'Amministrazione, 2023.

Simona Gozzo is Associate Professor in Sociology at the Department of Social and Political Sciences, University of Catania. She held methodological seminars for doctorates in Catania, Genoa, Umeå (Sweden) and Barcelona (Spain). She has actively participated in or directed several research projects with a sociological focus. Nowadays, she is a member of the EVS European Social Values Scientific Committee (Italy). Her main interests of research are on cohesion, social sustainability, vulnerability, and integration. She is particularly interested in applications of network analysis and relational analysis, with an intergenerational and gender sensitive perspective. Among the monographs we focus on “Le condizioni della coesione. Macro-Micro links per un processo da governare”, on the dynamics producing social cohesion.

Alon Helled is a research fellow at the Department of Culture, Politics and Society, University of Turin, where he conducts a research entitled Nation, sovereignty and banalization in the Israeli habitus: a socio-political parable?. In 2019 he obtained his PhD in political and social sciences within the framework of the PhD in “Social and Political Change” (XXX cycle), coordinated by the University of Turin and the University of Florence and was co-supervised with the doctoral program in sociology at the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales (EHESS). Dr. Helled is a member of the Italian Society for Political Studies (SISP), member of several permanent groups of the European Consortium for Political Research (ECPR) and member of the advisory committee in Political Sociology (ECPR); member of the Norbert Elias Foundation and member of the Association for the Study of Israel (AIS) and the European Association for Studies on Israel.

Giacomo Lampredi is a research fellow at the Department of Social and Political Sciences of the University of Milan. His research interests are sociology of emotions, activism, and ethics of care. Among his latest publications: The intimate life of criminalization. Affective governance in contentious migrant solidarity (Ethnic and Racial Studies), Activist care: Acts of care as acts of citizenship (International Journal of Care and Caring) and George Herbert Mead e Norbert Elias. Un dialogo a partire dalle emozioni (Cambio. Rivista Sulle Trasformazioni Sociali).

Davide Lampugnani è ricercatore presso il Dipartimento di Sociologia dell'Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore di Milano dove insegna Sociologia generale e Sociologia dei processi organizzativi e gestionali. I suoi interessi di ricerca vertono, da una parte, attorno all'analisi dei processi di trasformazione sociale e culturale contemporanea, con una particolare attenzione per i processi di innovazione sociale a livello comunitario e territoriale. Dall'altra parte, si è occupato di approfondire il pensiero di Michel de Certeau, mettendone in evidenza la rilevanza e l'attualità in termini di teoria e ricerca sociologica. Da diversi anni, inoltre, collabora al progetto di ricerca dell'Archivio della Generatività Sociale. Tra le sue pubblicazioni più recenti si ricordano: Innovazione sociale e generatività sociale: tra conservazione e innovazione (con Patrizia Cappelletti) (in Riflessioni Sistemiche, 2020); Passi, memorie, racconti. Il viaggio quotidiano in Michel de Certeau (in Il viaggio. Spazi e tempi di una trasformazione, Jaca Book, 2021); Al ritmo della vita. Storia, metodo e generatività della banda Rulli Frulli (con Patrizia Cappelletti) (Erikson, 2022); Modernità e alterità. Un percorso sulle tracce di Michel de Certeau (Vita e Pensiero, 2023).

Giuseppe A. Micheli ha tenuto, tra il 1986 e il 2018, la cattedra di Demografia alle università di Palermo, Milano Cattolica, Milano Bicocca. Si è occupato di povertà e logiche dell'azione, generazioni e malattie mentali, matematica delle popolazioni e antropologia della famiglia e della parentela. Tra i contributi recenti i volumi Forme di pensiero rifratto. Il ruolo degli stati d'animo nella (de-)formazione dell'azione (Angeli 2018), Preferirei di no. Perché il crollo delle nascite ha radici lontane (Mimesis, 2021), La famiglia mediterranea. Una geografia dei legami di sangue (Carocci, 2021) e gli articoli Blood Ties and Strong Ties: a Two-Way Linkage? Some nontrivial implications of the care workers market in a Mediterranean region (International Review of Sociology, 2017), Handle with care: the fiddly concept of 'transitional' when partitioning Europe in regional family systems (Journal of family history, 2018), Trovare una Gestalt non unificata, ma comune. Commento a una riflessione di Kertzer (Etnografia e ricerca qualitativa, 2019), Not just a one-man revolution. The multifaceted anti-asylum Watershed in Italy (History of Psychiatry, 2019), Come nasce la grande bonaccia delle nascite in Italia. Prove di costruzione di un punto di vista non standard (Rassegna Italiana di Sociologia, 2023).

Giulia Mirra è laureata magistrale in Scienze della politica presso la "Sapienza" Università di Roma, con indirizzo storia del pensiero politico contemporaneo. A seguito degli studi diviene coordinatrice presso la "Sapienza" dell'Osservatorio Europeo, piattaforma tesa alla promozione delle politiche europee tra i giovani. Già collaboratrice parlamentare presso la Camera dei deputati, poi Assistente per le politiche universitarie e i rapporti con il Parlamento del Ministro Lorenzo Fioramonti (MIUR), e successivamente sua consulente politico-legislativa presso la Camera dei Deputati. Dal 2021 è responsabile per la comunicazione e per le relazioni esterne della componente ecologista "FacciamoEco" all'interno del gruppo Misto alla Camera, per l'anno accademico 2021-2022 è cultrice della materia in Politiche Pubbliche presso la Link Campus University di Roma.

Giulio Moini teaches Political Sociology, Governance and Participation in Sustainable Development Policies, at the Department of Social and Economic Sciences at Sapienza University of Rome. He deals with the transformations of contemporary public policy with particular reference to the themes of neoliberalism, new forms of political participation and sustainability. His publications include: Neoliberalismo (Mondadori Università 2020); «Sociologia politica. Quale ruolo pubblico?», in SocietàMutamentoPolitica, (13)25, 2022; «Politicizzare la sostenibilità, riassemble il sociale nell'epoca neoliberista» in Pólemos 2/2023.

Federico Montanari is associate professor of Sociology of Cultural and Communicative Processes, at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia, where he teaches Media Semiotics, Visual and Media studies and Communication Theories, and after having taught in several other universities. He works on sociosemiotics applied to the study of media, war and conflict situations, technologies, visual and aesthetic phenomena; more recently in relation to the issues of environment and urban spaces; as well as regarding the relationship between images, technologies, AI and education. He also works on the philosophy of poststructuralism. On these topics he is involved in several research projects, including European ones, and he collaborates with research laboratories abroad (Philépol, Sorbonne, Paris; Projekt-Design et Innovation Sociale, Nîmes) and he is a member of several doctoral boards, including Childhood Studies, Data Science (Unimore). He has written several books and articles, including: “Citizen, Explorer, Gamer”, in Learning on the Move. Social Education Handbook for Students (2023) with, Conti, G., Dusi, N., Salvador, M. Uboldi, S.. “Teaching Embodied Decision-Making Skills in the Wild” (2023), in Teaching on the Move. Social Education Toolkit for Teachers - with, G. Conti, N. Dusi, Salvador, M., Uboldi, S.. «Narrazione». in Dizionario mediologico della guerra in Ucraina (2022). «The New Narrative Form of Post-Conflicts: New Wars as World Wide War», in, Cristina Demaria (ed.), Post-conflict Cultures. A Reader, London, (2020). «La forma mediale e seriale della guerra e dei conflitti», in, N. Dusi (ed.), Confini di genere. Sociosemiotica delle serie tv, (2020). Immagini coinvolte (2016). «Semiotics, Deleuze (& Guattari) and post-structuralism. Further opening questions?» (2016). Morphogenesis and Individuation (2014, con A. Sarti e F. Galofaro). Linguaggi della guerra (2004).

Tiziana Nupieri Post-doc researcher at the Department of Social and Economic Sciences, Sapienza University of Rome. Her research interests include meaning-making processes about sustainability and sustainable finance. Notable activities include scientific support to the Forum for Sustainable Development (2019-2022) in designing participatory practices and tools. She has recently published: Nupieri T. (2024), Finanziarizzare la sostenibilità. Attori, processi e rappresentazioni nel caso italiano, Sapienza Casa Editrice, Roma; Moini G. e Nupieri T. (2024), «Forme emergenti e “nuove” pratiche della partecipazione», In (eds.) d’Albergo E. e Moini G., Sociologia della politica contemporanea, Carocci, Rome.

Massimiliano Panarari is associate professor of Sociology of Communication at the University of Modena and Reggio Emilia. He is a columnist for the newspaper “La Stampa”, the North-East newspapers NEM and the weekly “L’Espresso”. He is a member of the editorial board of “Rivista di Digital Politics” (Il Mulino) and also of “Rivista di Politica” (Rubbettino), and of the scientific committee of the “Culturologica” series (Guerini e Associati). He has published the following books: La credi- bilità politica (con Guido Gili; Marsilio, 2020); Uno non vale uno. Democrazia diretta e altri miti d’oggi (Marsilio, 2018); Poteri e Informazione. Teorie della comunicazione e storia della manipolazione politica in Italia, 1850-1930 (Le Monnier-Mondadori Università, 2017); Legemonia sottoculturale. L’Italia da Gramsci al gossip (Einaudi, 2010).

Matteo Pietropaoli è dottore di ricerca in Filosofia presso la “Sapienza” Università di Roma, nel 2018 consegue l’ASN a professore di II fascia in Filosofia Teoretica. Nel corso delle sue ricerche trascorre periodi presso la Sorbonne Université de Paris, la Martin-Luther-Universität Halle-Wittenberg e la Ruprecht-Karls-Universität Heidelberg. Autore di numerosi saggi su riviste scientifiche nazionali e internazionali, oltre che di libri e traduzioni, dal 2018 al 2021 ha lavorato come consulente politico-legislativo per il MIUR e la Camera dei Deputati. Attualmente insegna Political Sociology e Politiche Pubbliche presso la Link Campus University di Roma.

Francesco Pira is Associate Professor of Sociology of Cultural and Communicative Processes and teaches Strategic Communication, Theories and Techniques of Digital Journalism and Sports Journalism, Social Media and Business Communication, at the Master’s and Bachelor’s degree courses of the Department of Ancient and Modern Civilisations of the University of Messina. He is a member of the Teaching Board of the Doctorate in Political Science of the Department of the same name at the University of Messina. In his research he has explored various aspects of the sociology of communication with a focus on the techniques of political and public communication and social communication. Since 1999, he has been studying the interactions between children, adolescents and new technologies and has published several essays and volumes dedicated to the evolution of these communication dynamics linked to the development of new media and technological platforms. Currently, his main area of research is focused on the dynamics generated by social media and the new models of social relations related to them. His publications as an author include Children of Apps. Le nuove generazioni digital popolari e social dipendenti, (FrancoAngeli 2021); La Net comunicazione politica. Partiti movimenti e cittadini-elettori nell’era dei social network (Franco Angeli, 2011). Coordinator and Scientific Responsible for Italy, until June 2023, of the OIR Project, on inclusive education - Erasmus + (Open Innovative Resources) financed by the European Union, which brings together the Universities of Lublin (Poland), Oviedo (Spain) and Messina, Director of the Master’s Degree Course in “Expert in Digital Communication for Public Administration and Enterprise” at the University of Messina. Rector’s Delegate for Communication at the University of Messina from February 2020 to October 2023.

Pippo Russo è Ricercatore di Sociologia dell’Ambiente e del Territorio presso il Dipartimento di Scienze Politiche e Sociali (DSPS) dell’Università di Firenze. Studia la trasformazione delle identità agrarie avvenuto in conseguenza del mutamento culturale che ha impattato sul rapporto fra città e campagna. È specialista anche sui temi di sport e loisir, cittadinanza, globalizzazione, che tratta sia sul piano della ricerca accademica che su quello dell’approfondimento giornalistico. Fra le sue pubblicazioni più importanti vanno ricordate Sociologia dei Sistemi Urbani (con Annick Magnier, Il Mulino, 2002), Sport e Società (Carocci, 2004), La Tribù e il Talento. Traiettorie della Cittadinanza nell’Era della Globalizzazione (Editpress 2021), Stadi di Alterazione. Gli Impianti Sportivi di Nuova Generazione nel Mutamento dei Sistemi Urbani (Editpress 2021), I Nuovi Agrari. Un Ceto Nascente fra Cittadinanza e Globalizzazione (Passigli 2021).